

ABSTRACT

A system of control panels for multifunction devices each have multiple defined regions which are associated with a different function of the multifunction devices. Selectable controls are grouped by functional relation 5 into one or more control groups, where the selectable controls of an individual control group are arranged within a region associated with a particular function. Although a particular control panel may not have selectable controls for a function that is not supported by a multifunction device, the particular control panel still has a defined region for the function.

10